

I changed the design on the tap so that there is only one cation possible for the user to do. I placed a piece in the middle that stands up, signifying the user that it affords lifting, placed only on one edge of the tap so that when the user lifts it it automatically rips it open

